Electronization of public procurement - tender eGuarentee

We advise that in connection with implementation of Directive 2014/24/EU of the European Parliament And of the Council of 26 February 2014 on public procurement and repealing Directive 2004/18/EC, in line with the Act amending the Public Procurement Law and certain other acts dated 22 June 2016, starting from 18 October 2018 participation in a public contract will require filing all documents, tenders, applications and collateral in the form of bank guarantees (tender guarantees) in an electronic form.

In practice this means that tender guarantees extended to date by banks in writing shall be extended in an electronic form.

In accordance with provisions of the Civil Code an electronic form exists where a declaration of will filed electronically is signed with a qualified electronic signature. A declaration of intent filed in an electronic form shall be equivalent to a declaration of will filed in writing.

Bank Handlowy w Warszawie S.A. offers guarantees (not only tender guarantees) extended in an electronic form – eGuarantees – from April 2017.

You need to select an appropriate option on the guarantee extension application and specify the e-mail address to which the Bank is to send the eGuarantee.

The eGuarantee is sent via Citi Secure Email.

Should you have any questions, please contact your consultant or the guarantee team directly.

Transfers to Russia in Russian rubles (RUB) - changes

Please be advised that the Central Bank of Russia has introduced time limits for accepting orders in the Russian currency.

In view if these limits, please make sure that orders in Russian rubles contain complete information and are compliant with the laws currently in force in the Russian Federation. The content of the new guidelines can be found in the attachment to this document. Please also note that they are subject to change.

In the case of lack of complete information required in accordance with Russian regulations, the transactions will be returned to the payer by the Russian banks, including our correspondent (Citibank Moscow). This means, that the payment will not be credited to the beneficiary's account.

The current cut-off time for accepting payments in Russian rubles at Citi Handlowy (Bank Handlowy w Warszawie SA) remains unchanged: transactions are executed, provided that there are sufficient funds in the Customer's account.

Import transfers (ordered, outgoing) - realization of transfer based on available funds on client's account:

The AML Act - changes with regard to identification and verification of identity

Please be advised that the Act on counteracting money laundering and financing terrorism came into force on 13 July this year. The Act specifies a new way of identifying and verifying the identity of each customer and, among others, a person authorised to act on the customer's behalf, i.e. a person indicated in the signature specimen card, in electronic banking applications or making cash deposits. In the case of these persons, the Bank has the right to require the presentation of an identity document, e.g. to make a copy or to submit a copy of a notarised document.

For opened cash deposits, in order to verify the identity of the person making the deposit, the Bank has the right to require the presentation of an identity document, regardless of the amount of the transaction.

If the person concerned refuses to present his or her identity document, the Bank may withdraw from the transaction.

Please also be advised that the following forms have been updated: the signature specimen card and electronic banking applications. In order to receive the updated forms, please contact a consultant or download them from the website www.citidirect.pl.

The updated documentation is available on the following website: http://www.citihandlowy.pl/poland/citidirect/polish/dokumenty.htm.

Should you have any questions, do not hesitate to contact the Card Customer Service by calling on: +48 22 692 26 62 or sending an email to: karty.obsluga.klienta@citi.com.
